Variance Statement:

We are requesting a six foot variance for a deck and patio to be built on the back of our home for residential recreational purposes. We are requesting this variance to enable the construction of a second story deck off of our kitchen with stairs that will go down to a patio off of the walk out basement.

Review Criteria:

The original home owners completed construction on the home at the end of 2010. They intended to build a patio and second story deck on the rear of the house, but transferred out of the country before the deck and patio were built. We moved to Dublin from Orchard Park, New York in July 2012 with full intentions to build the deck and patio on the house. The owners provided us with their sketch of their intended plans for the deck. At the time of closing, we obtained a copy of our plat of survey showing a 20 foot no build zone between the bike path and the residence. This spring we contacted several deck/patio contractors to give us an estimate of work to be done to build our deck & patio. The third contractor that came over indicated that the city of Dublin could possibly have an easement that would prohibit the size of deck desired.

The way the house was built, the sliding doors are off of the kitchen in a bump-out. This leaves only four feet of building space allowed for our deck from the house to the easement. Additionally, because of the design of the bike path, our backyard is smaller than the majority of the other back yards on our block.

As you travel the bike path behind the homes and approach the end of the path, the backyards are narrower. We are requesting a six foot variance for both the deck and patio in order to finish the construction of our home. This additional six feet will not impose on the "no build zone."

We strongly feel adding a deck and patio on the back of our house will not have an adverse effect to the property, but will enhance the appearance and use of our home while improving the aesthetics of the neighborhood. It will unify our property with the adjacent homes as we are the only home that does not have a finished outdoor recreational space. This variance would greatly enhance our quality of life, allowing our family to further enjoy the beautiful outdoors.

The proposed variance requested is for the rear of the property and will not adversely affect delivery of any governmental services. In order to achieve an alternate solution, we would have to renovate the back of the home as a four foot deck is not practical.

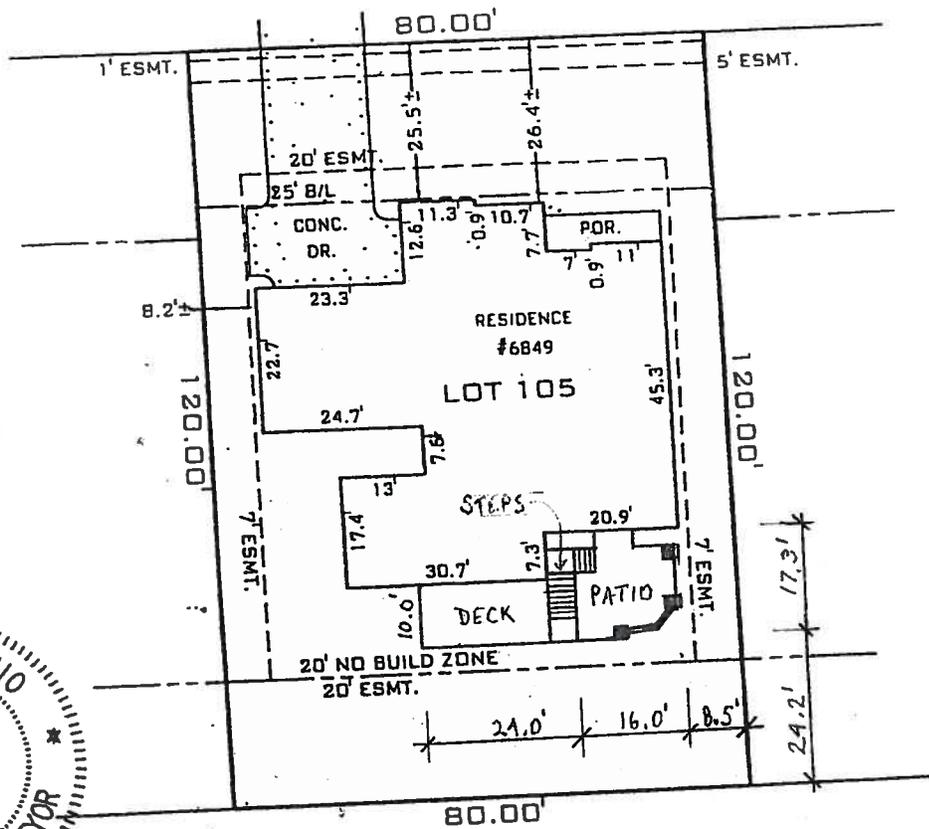

While we would have built a bigger deck if not constrained, we believe a six variance is the minimum practical amount required for a functional deck.
